How is natural vitamin C better than synthetic vitamin C?

Natural Vitamin C	Synthetic Vitamin C
Low in acid and does not irritate the stomach.	High in acid which will disturb the stomach.
Contains bioflavonoids which enhance vitamin C absorption for maximum benefits.	Cannot be fully absorbed by body and will be removed via urine
Bioflavonoids help prevent vitamin C from being destroyed in the metabolism process.	Can be easily broken down through oxidation before it can yield benefits for body.

Acerola Cherry Extract

Acerola Cherry is a plant in Malpighiaceae family and it is also known as Barbados cherry. The fruits are red and look like cherries. It is originally from South America, and later widely cultivated in Brazil. The acerola from Brazil has become very popular due to its highest vitamin C content out any other fruits.

Acerola is a small tropical fruit which turns red when it is ripe. It is also known as The King of C because it contains an extremely high level of vitamin C compared to other fruits. One acerola is richer in vitamin C than four oranges combined. A glass of acerola cherry juice has the same level of vitamin C as 14 liters of fresh orange juice. Also, it contains antioxidants which will improve your overall health, strengthen your immune system and protect you from diseases caused by free radicals like cancer, heart diseases, vascular diseases, and degenerative diseases.
